cordially invite you to come

“Over the river and through the woods” ...

... to an old-fashioned, New England Thanksgiving Dinner.

No matter where in the world they are, Americans turn their thoughts to America's first English settlers and their Native-American hosts on Cape Cod -- and to quaint rural farmsteads in the hills of New Hampshire and Vermont. Harvest home, folklore and fallen leaves, the old wooden barn, snow-covered fields, the smell of roast turkey and a crackling fire, candle-lit parlours filled with family and friends . . .

On this Thanksgiving 2009, our members and guests will share poems, prayers, memories, anecdotes and recipes in commemoration of the first Thanksgiving in Plymouth, Massachusetts.

Special guest, Art Historian Holly Richardson Todd, Ph.D., will acquaint us with some New England artists whose works have left lasting impressions on the American "vision" of this very special American holiday.

Please join us on
